I hereby declare that I am supplying a 'press ready' PDF file to Print Vision, which has been created by an external graphic designer, and I take full responsibility that the file I am supplying to Print Vision has been set up to meet all the required printing and setup specifications. I understand that there are strict guidelines that my designer must meet to ensure that I received a quality finished product, and that Print Vision designers have no way of checking or altering the supplied file to ensure that these guidelines have been met.

I understand that files created using Microsoft programs such as Publisher, Word or Powerpoint are often not acceptable for offset print setup, and if these programs have been used to design the original file, there may be some variance between our printing requirements and what is supplied to us as a final file.

I understand that Print Vision will take no responsibility for errors within the original file setup, or differences in colour/brightness/hue from what is offset printed to what you originally expected from a proof or screen shot. The Print Vision graphic designers will check pagination, bleed and document size, before we commence printing. All embedded scans should have been checked by your graphic designer for the correct CMYK breakup, and any corrections required. Press Ready files cannot and will not be altered in any way. We can only print what is in the supplied file.

Any digital proofs supplied by Print Vision prior to printing are for LAYOUT checking only and not indicative of final printed colour or stock. Different stock types used for printing will affect the outcome of different colours. No reprints (free or otherwise) will be offered by Print Vision due to differences in what is printed and what you were expecting.

Understanding all the important points, I accept these terms and conditions for supplying press ready PDF files to Print Vision, and accept full responsibility if printed product fails to meet my requirements or expectations.
